

Let justice flow

Clean fresh water to a tap near you

Not much to ask for; but in some places men, women and children walk for up to six hours a day to collect enough water just to survive.

'Let Justice Flow' is a campaign of the Presbyterian Church's World Development Appeal which, with your help and through our partners Tearfund and Christian Aid, is providing clean water to thousands of people in developing countries.

Its focus is to create just societies and communities where Christian love is seen in action, helping transform lives in long term sustainable ways.

Through your generosity World Development is supporting self-help schemes in Uganda and Cambodia helping local people help their communities to enjoy better health, grow better crops, better educate their children and be self supporting...

...all through clean fresh water coming to a tap near them.
